Took to much Advil? Hey, I'm 18F, 5'5", 123 lbs. I'm on Day 1 of my period, and I get really bad cramps on the first day, but today has been way worse than the first. AM: 3 Advil liquid gels (600 mg) -2:00 PM: 1 Advil liquid gel (200 mg) So, I've taken 1200 mg of ibuprofen today. I felt fine for a bit after the 8:30 AM dose, but then the pain came back. I tried to take a heating pad and try to survive Current Symptoms: -Severe pelvic cramps (feels like my stomach is being twisted in knots) -Lower back pain that's almost just as bad as the pelvic pain. I've been like this for 2 years, but this is only the second time in my life it's been this intense. It's never happened this bad, I don't know what's happening. I really don't want to take more, but I've already taken a lot today and I'm worried about messing up my stomach or liver. If I can't, how long should I wait to take more? - is it okay to take Tylenol? I feel so helpless. Appreciate any help, thank you!

Finally got off that Xtampza (wasn't working) I posted a while back about my pain medication, Xtampza ER 9 mg twice daily, not working for my various pains. I've been dismissed due to having a take extra medication when I was recovering from a rough incisional hernia repair in August. I was first referred to pain management by my surgeon, who asked her to prescribe it for me following my shoulder surgery, feeling like I was ready to stop taking the oxycodone prescribed by my surgeon (I found it difficult to take for hours as needed for about a year (when I wasn't on stronger pain medication following surgery-I have a lot of surgeries, mostly because of the Ehlers Danlos syndrome I'm treated by a pain management doctor. I wasn't sure why, and I didn't think pain management would prescribe narcotics, especially at the first appointment. I was told at that time, with a lot of help from medical marijuana, so I thought it was reasonable when the doctor prescribed 5 mg oxycodone IR three times daily and I was to discuss it with my doctor on the phone following the next appointment, which was for injections. He agreed to put me on an extended release oxycodone, but then it would work, so it was inconsistent and I suspect my digestive system didn't help. I went back to the doctor early in September to discuss changing it. He said it was for me. We decided that we would try morphine sulfate immediate release for the next fill, so I had to wait until September 29 to start it. I wasn't expecting it to work too well, from what I read, but I thought it was possible it might be helpful for me because my cousin had gotten more relief from morphine than from any other painkiller I'd built up for oxycodone, taking it since April. I'm worried about developing a tolerance for the morphine, of course, and my doctor doesn't seem to want to do that's what he's thinking. I don't think he's willing to prescribe extended release along with immediate release for breakthrough pain, but I just consider

Is it safe to take 500mg of acetaminophen daily for mild headaches? Hi, I'm 55 male and have been taking Tylenol (acetaminophen) every night for the last 10 years. I've already tried a few different ones. Talked to a headache specialist but she doesn't have an answer. But anyway my question is it safe to take 500mg of acetaminophen every day for 10 months, especially with only 500mg. TYIA

(18F) Should I just go to the ER for real and be honest about my symptoms . Advil is not doing shit and my jaw and chest hurt still, edema is worse and I'm still being only 18 and being like "ohhh my chest hurts I'm going to die!!! Panic attack! Hysterical female alert!!! Need a physch referral STAT!", because realistically I got over being bullied by some evil 7th graders and no longer had a panic attack when talking to anyone outside of my parents, but I know any time I feel like I'm 16/17, I was having terrible reactive hypoglycaemia due to a medication I was on and felt really worried and confused because my vision was getting dark and I was feeling insane and mentally ill and said I "clearly have to see a physch again because clearly I'm not doing any better", because I had...healed mild scars on my arms and sometimes my throat shakes itself and stutters because I issues with involuntary movement of my muscles so it makes me sound anxious when I'm not. I have chest pain and jaw pain. It's like, icy cool, burning but freezing. And walking to the bathroom makes me feel like I ran a mile. I've had two instances of this where I lose my breath. Once it was at about 2am which made be unable to sleep, and the other at 9PM the next day while taking a bath. I fell on the second one because I was so tired because it hurts, but also because Advil is not helping so that might not mean I just bruised something. My dad offered to take me to the ER and I just...correct? I didn't tell him about the chest pains. And if I think "should I go to the ER", than it's not like an emergency...I'm not dying, it's not awful. I just don't want to go to the ER (etc...) But still I'm only 18. I might call 811 (imagine the urgent care equivalent to calling 911, it's kinda like that) and ask them what to do. Idk but going to the ER for one more day and hope it gets less worse? I do feel less tired today. I was able to do things. I really want my life and body to just fix itself already. My dad died to my last post. Saw a Naturopath, he seems to think I'm fine and it's just hormonal. Still getting more worse though. (use this for reference) Some people think what's happening to me is an emergency, and also my mom gets really angry if I bring it up saying that because I don't have an infection or I'm not passing out or anything, though, I really don't know who to believe... So I went to a Naturopath for something unrelated and he said my edema is most likely just hormonal and some blood tests that an endo could, which is good because seeing the endo is about 9 months. I do have new some new issues though :(When I woke up today the pain was worse. My urine has pulp in it and it's all cloudy. Also the heel on the back of my feet is completely numb and one of my toes have gotten a bit red. I also get dizzy every 2 hours. I'm so tired. It's really miserable. I used to be a good student, too, but I can't study or do anything I love because I'm so sleepy and sick. I'm not asymptomatic and I'm losing my mind/exgerrating? Is the naturopath trustable? Is it all just hormonal? Should I try to push to go to the ER still, or does it sound like a Nothing emergency related though, Doctor was very nice and told me if I get any worse to come back. I feel kinda stupid for going and I'll probably delete this post. I was stage 2 hypertension, though...which was strange, because yesterday it was slightly elevated and low when I stood up. Idk why. My bodies all fucked up :(apparently what my family isn't just quirky but abusive, according to her and if I was still 17 CPS would've been called) so my body might be fucking in pain for nothing er related was wrong tho. Thank you again to everyone who helped me.

Max dosage of ibuprofen pills Hi, I need to know what are the possible outcomes if I take (a) 2000mg of ibuprofen (advil) on an empty stomach all at once

Can you take 400mg of ibuprofen, and 500mg of Acetaminophen together? I know Oxycodone is okay with either one, but what about both?

Is a small overdose of paracetamol okay? Would it be dangerous to take just slightly more than the recommended dosage of paracetamol or even ibuprofen? I went to the dentist 3 times in the last 4 days and they've explained that my jaw bone and nerve are exposed but it will heal in the next 2 weeks max. They've packed the wound to help with the pain but it's not really helping. I find myself doubled over in agony for hours and hours every day, I've only been able to eat small amounts of food.

Increase in migraine frequency with Topamax Hi everyone, I have a question about Topamax use. My story is kind of a drawn out one... I was diagnosed with migraines a long time ago and have been on Topamax for a while. I started taking it because of it, I ended up in the ER, which I have never done before. While there they administered a lumbar puncture and CT Scan and after still no relief I was taking Topamax. After my first visit with my Neurologist at the start of May he increased my dosage of Topamax to 100mg and prescribed me a new abortifacient. I feel like it is actually causing headaches/migraines because I have had what feels like no relief when before I started daily maintenance in March my episodes were less frequent. I know cause rebounds so I try to use them sparingly so I resort to Tylenol 325mg or 500mg. Has anyone else experienced this with Topamax? I see him next week.

is it ok to take 500mg paracetamol, 2 hours after a pink migravele tablet

Question on ibuprofen (UK) Question, I understand the difference in ibuprofen and ibuprofen lysine as the latter is more soluble therefore 'faster acting' but I'm not sure about the control of medications so what's on the box has to be 100% honest, and it says "ingredients 100% ibuprofen lysine" where as the former says the same "100% ibuprofen".

Can I take 4 x 600mg ibuprofen? Hey guys! I had my wisdom teeth removed and I've been taking 3 x 600mg a day with 4 x 200mg paracetamol as well. How often can I take with a paracetamol each time?

Coping with side effects? Any remedies out there to make me more comfortable? 37f vaxed with pfizer. First time getting covid. Im on vacation and feeling like a cold washcloth on me. Next day i felt significantly better. Thought i was on the mend. Today im back to the body aches and fatigue and dizziness. A hot shower felt great gonna try that again. And sitting in the sun felt good. Just want to hear whats been working for everyone else.

My Timeline & Symptoms Caught Covid for the second time last week (first time Dec 2022) and wanted to share my timeline/symptoms in case anyone else is feeling so sore to touch. Fatigued and generally feeling under the weather. Took max dose of paracetamol throughout the day and night. Day 2: Extreme fatigue, headache, with some panic attacks. Breathing issues continued, blood O₂ was normal. Nausea and no appetite continued. Day 4: Still very anxious, panic attacks, but negative so I'm nearing the end of the active infection. Extremely fatigued, napping for 3 hours at a time, cough worsened. Generally feel shitty.

Is taking 600 mg of ibuprofen every eight hours okay? I've had my period for about 4 months. My hemoglobin levels were very low (around 4.7) and I went to a practitioner who put it said that it is critical for me to stop the bleeding ASAP as IUDs can take months to stop the blood. She suggested that I take 600 mg of ibuprofen twice a day. If I don't take the ibuprofen, I have unbearable cramps. It's been a godsend so far but I am scared I'm going to be addicted to it or it'll mess up my stomach. I'm prescribed women's prenatal vitamin and otc iron. I am 19 and F.

First day on prednisone for sinus issues/possible allergies - bad muscle pain. Is this normal or concerning? I have struggled with sinus issues for years (2010-2015) and decided to start at 40mg/day, then decrease by 10mg/day every 3 days. I started today (technically yesterday, since it's after 3am and I apparently have no hope of getting to sleep) and I'm so inflamed and uncomfortable. Even if I were tired, I doubt I could sleep because it is so distracting. I took some extra-strength tylenol earlier and that seemed to help a little but I'm dismissive in terms of side effects and precautions, so I'm not sure what to be concerned about and what I should expect to go away. tl;dr: First day on prednisone.

Benadryl isn't working as it used to! So I've taken Benadryl a few times in my life, mostly to get rid of hives. I take Benadryl a few times a year, at most. Today I have hives on my best efforts. I have to work 12 hours shifts the next 4/5 days, so I was really trying to start it off with a good night's sleep. In the past, I've taken half a Benadryl and it's worked. The only other things I've taken today are 2 Tylenol, 1000 mg of garlic extract, and vitamin C (a doctor my boyfriend works with swore it'd make me feel better). [M22 200 pounds] How bad is it to take 1300mg of tylenol? I just realized I've been taking 1300mg of tylenol for 3 days now. How bad is this for my liver?

Am I at risk for overdosing on OTC Painkillers? I have an ear infection and I haven't gone to the doctor because I'm trying to just use painkillers to let it pass. I'm worried that I could be doing damage to myself via the painkillers. Right now my current dosage is as follows: Every 6 hours I take 2 Advil (Ibuprofen) 200mg. I also take 2 Tylenol (Acetaminophen) 500mg. I feel nauseous. Is this okay? If not how should I change, note without painkillers the ear infection is quite painful and I cannot do any daily tasks or get outta bed.

Is this a migraine? 24F, 180cm, 62.6kg, Canada, no medications or underlying health conditions besides TMJ dysfunction I've never had a migraine before nose/temples to the top of my head. It's worse on the right but is present on both sides. Looking at my phone on the lowest brightness hurts, as does the describe the pain as a 7/10 with spikes higher wherein I just put pressure on my temples with my hands and breathe until they pass.
